Jury Considered Case a Long Time and Awarded Plaintiffs $242.46, Cutting Off the Amount Claimed for Interest-Defendant Surprised.

In the court of common pleas here on Friday a verdict for the plaintiffs to recover the sum of $242.46 and costs was given by the jury in the case of Brown & Perkins vs. Lafayed the F. Main which case had been on trial for several days. The jury was out nearly two hours and came in for instructions once.

When court came in Friday morning although it was thought the evidence was all in Thursday night, there was some more introduced, as Mr. Main claimed the date regarding a milltown item was not correct. This was explained by Judge Brown, after which the testimony closed. The arguments were then made by Attorney W. H. Shields and Lafayette F. Main, the jutter taking about two hours, and spoke freely and without being at all excited. He reviewed the case, read a number of sentiments he had written down and included a number of stories and some personalities, so that there was an interesting films for the jury to award interest in case they found for the plaintiffs. The court informed them that it would be necessary for the jury to award interest in case they found for the plaintiffs. The court informed them that it would not and they retired again. After that Mr. Main remarked that it jooked as if he had lost.

At 450 o'clock the jury returned with a verdict rendered through Foreman John D. Eggleston for the plaintiffs to recover $242.45 with costs.

This completes the business for the day and the jury was excused until Tresday excepting a few who were excused for the term. Court was adjourned until this afternoon at two o'clock at New London.

Mr. Main, after the court had adjourned, stated that he was surprised that the jury brought in a verdict rendered through Foreman John D. Eggleston for the plaintiffs to recover $242.45 with costs.

railroad language to indicate that the train ran over some hard object on the rails, or a bad bit of track that might need fixing.

When the car rew reached the spot they found that the train had struck and crushed down between the rails a large stone which might have caused trouble if it had been a trolley car to hit it first instead of the engine.

It was stated from an authoritative source Friday night that last Tuesday evening the trolley crew on the 7.17 trip from Norwich found a large pointed atone sticking up between the rails at the same bridge, but on the Jewett City side. It might have derailed the car if not seen in time, and the trolley men are beginning to think this place ought to be watched to see if the stones get there through accident or in some other way.
